1. The Joint Chiefs of Staff concur in your plan for public groups into and out of Berlin as outlined in referenced messages, providing not more than three battle groups are in Berlin at one time.

The Honorable
The Secretary of State
The Department of State
Washington 25, D.C.

Dear Dean:

You will recall that on 20 August 1961 one battle group of Seventh Army was deployed to Berlin as a political/psychological demonstration.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff, upon recommendation of USCINCEUR, desire that the Augmentation Battle Group be rotated at an early date from Seventh Army and thereafter, at intervals of approximately every two or three months, for training and morale reasons.

The Augmentation Battle Group would leave Berlin one day, and the relief Augmentation Battle Group would move to Berlin the next day by administrative motor convoy along Helmstedt-Berlin Autobahn with all equipment except tracked vehicles. Troops would be in combat uniform. Should circumstances dictate, the relief Augmentation Battle Group will first be moved. Communication and control of units traversing the Autobahn are provided for in the relief plan. The battle groups would move as units.

To prevent misinterpretation an appropriate press release would be made announcing the rotation policy, followed by low key announcements of the actual rotations when effected. Rotation dates would be reported in advance in case there were a reason at the time not to make any specific transfer.

I should appreciate having your concurrence.

Sincerely,

/s/ ROSWELL L. GILPATRIC
Deputy Secretary of Defense
